

Noel Cross+Architects

Mission Statement:

The work our firm does positively impacts the built environment; we design environments that support people's lives and lifestyles, their well being, and their self-expression. Central to our work is the health of our clients and planet, and the sustainability of the local and global environment. Our commitment is that people absolutely love where they live, work, and play, and that they truly enjoy the process of designing and building their vision.

Background:

Mr. Cross has been working in the architecture and construction industry for the past 25 years, and has experience in a wide range of construction types. The firm's main focus at present is in custom residential and ecologically sustainable design, having been involved in the design and construction of several hundred new home and addition/remodel projects in the past fourteen years. We enjoy longstanding relationships and great working track records with local government agencies in obtaining approval for our client's projects. Past projects have also included retail, medical, and commercial office tenant improvements, restaurants, concrete tilt-up (R&D), multiple family residential, master planning, urban planning, and institutional (schools).
